

ABSTRACT

A welding head having an elongated shape enabling it to penetrate into narrow chamfers set up between two parts to be welded, and containing the end of a welding wire close to a laser beam to extend a molten pool and thus ensure a high quality welding operation even on edges of the chamfer.